

Not So Bread and Butter: A Case of Recurrent Pancreatitis and Evidence-Based Management Updates

Catherine Gratz Griffin Lake Forest Hospital Case Presentation Series

Presented by Juan Aguirre Villalobos, MD, and Oscar Castro, MD

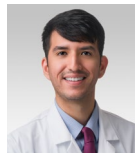

Dr. Aguirre Villalobos, often referred to as Dr. Juan, is a second-year family medicine resident at Northwestern Medicine Catherine Gratz Griffin Lake Forest Hospital. He obtained his undergraduate degree at the University of Wisconsin and stayed to complete his medical degree at the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health.

Juan Aguirre Villalobos, MD

He is passionate about providing care to underserved and Spanish-speaking patients of all ages and envisions collaborating with communities to advance health equality at the local level. During his time in residency, he formed part of the Northwestern Medicine Academy for Quality and Safety Improvement (AQSI) project team that aimed to improve the availability and use of interpreter services for Spanish-speaking patients on the Labor and Delivery and Mother-Baby Units at Catherine Gratz Griffin Lake Forest Hospital.

Dr. Castro is a second-year family medicine resident at Catherine Gratz Griffin Lake Forest Hospital. He obtained his undergraduate degree at the University of Iowa and his medical degree at Saint Louis University. He is passionate about providing care to Spanish-speaking patients. During residency, he is collaborating with an organization called Heart of the City that helps underserved and at-risk youth develop critical life skills and lead safe, healthy and productive lives through soccer.

Oscar Castro, MD

More specifically, he will be providing this population with the opportunity to receive no-cost sports physicals, as this is one barrier that can prohibit youth participation.
